INCREASED COUNTS OF WILDLIFE MUTILATION

Over the past few months, in the Department of Wildlife's tracking of wildlife numbers, we have noticed a significant increase of animal mutilation happening on camp grounds. Our Department and other Departments in Rosswood Park have recieved multiple complaints of animals being almost completely torn apart.

These statistics are on steadily trending up, and this is becoming a massive problem.

These horrific mutilations of animals, from small animals such as rats, to large animals als such as bears and deer. Our main concern is the upcoming Mountain Lion Summer Camp, which we fear a group children will stumble upon a ripped apart corpse of an animal. This is also starting to spread by word of mouth outside of the park, and we've also seen a slight decrease in park attendee numbers (Source: Department of Tourism), but this might not be related to the animals.

We have recieved one letter from an anonymous individual accusing the Rosswood Park teams of being Satanists and doing occult rituals in prohibited areas, like the closed off tunnel in Choctaw Mountain. They stated that they saw a massive creature ripping apart a smaller mammal with extreme force while camping about a month ago.

The Department of Wildlife recommends a Committee be created to focus energy on solving this problem and capturing / euthanizing whatever creature is doing this to wildlife. If it is a human, they must face serious legal repercussions for the damage to precious ecosystems they've caused.
